Culture Note

Equal Rights

It used to be that men and women had strictly defined roles in the West, according to their gender. Men were supposed to work and earn a living, and women were expected to take care of everything at home. This, however, is more and more becoming a thing of the past. Though studies still show that women perform more domestic work than men (cooking, cleaning, taking care of children, etc.), men are slowly starting to take on more of their fair share of work around the home.

Reading

A Work with a partner. Discuss the following questions.

- Do you make up a weekly or monthly schedule to help you keep track of activities?

Writing

In order to work efficiently, it is important to schedule the time and date for the activities that you need or want to do. If a schedule is made properly, it will help you manage your time wisely, and it can also end up giving you more time.

The best way to do this is to create a schedule calendar. This way, you can consult the calendar and make sure you haven't forgotten about something you need to do.

To create a schedule calendar, it is best to have a notebook that breaks down the months of the year by date and possibly also by the hours in each day. This depends on how detailed you want to be.

It is also important to have a notes section in each calendar month. This way, if something needs to be done at some point during the month but depends on external variables (such as weather, etc.), you will still have the reminder that it needs to be done.

Look at the following example:

April		Notes for April
	10:00 a.m.	Doctor appointment
	2:00 p.m.	Meet with Jim and Dave about group science project
	4:00 p.m.	Basketball practice
	7:00 p.m.	Date with Emily
2		Hike with Jenny and Michael on one Saturday, weather permitting

Now, think of some things you need to do over the next month, and write them down for a date and time on a calendar.
